COMMUNICATION

It is often remarked that a person is a knocker if he objects to expense to the taxpayer about an unnecessary project.

Such a socalled knocker may not accomplish much. The real knockers are the ones who are hammering away at the foundation of our government; are the ones who are chiseling away by enormous cost of government the value of real estate the security of the home and the prosperity of generations to come.

It is high time it was stopped. The trend is more and more toward the phrase you read about in history — "taxation without representation."

There are many instances of it in a small way and some in a larger measurer and if the intelligence of the American people can not realize this fact, then the high schools of the nation better banish all study except the history of civilization for the past 200 years of else expect the destruction of liberty.

The matter was discussed at last Tuesday's meeting of the Steuben County unit of the American Legion in Wayland and it is expected the project will be submitted for TERA approval. League President Blames Communists For Milk Strikes

Syracuse, June 21—Warning that Communists agitators may attempt to stir up another milk strike before the end of the summer was sounded by Fred H. Sexauer, president of the Dairymen's League Cooperative Association, Inc., today as he laid blame for the disorder in the milk strikes of April and August 1933 to Communist organizers and agitators.

Mr. Sexauer made his charges in an address at the annual meeting of the Dairymen's League. About 2,500 farmer members of the Association jounreyed from all parts of the New York Milk Shed to attend the sessions.

Exempting the local leaders of last year's strikes, as well as farm and labor leaders in general, from any accusation of being Communists, Mr. Sexauer declared, "there has come to us evidence that much of the dissension, strife and rioting in the New York Milk Shed were definitely the result of Communistic influence."

The strike, he said, was directed more particularly against the Dairymen's League than against dealers in general. He told of town and county officials being so harassed by threatening bands of men, who were not farmers that they asked the League to close its plants. Members of the Association, he said, refused to permit closing of their plants. He said farmers were beseiged by rioters who threatened to burn their buildings and poison their cattle. Automobiles carrying out of state license plates were numerous in the trouble areas, he said, and few of those rioting could be identified as local men. There was plenty of evidence of the work of clever agitators who quickly disappeared in hours of danger. He paid tribute to the efficient work of State Troopers, and lauded the farmers who refused to be intimidated and protected their property and markets.

GOOD-BYE CONGRESS

As this is written Congress hangs in the balance of trying to adjourn. The average citizen will be delighted when the last senator and representative packs his bag and catches the train from Washington, for a flock of sheep could scarcely have been less useful to the country than the group which has outraged public opinion the last few months.

This session of Congress can well be called the "Rubber Stamp" session. Its functioning has been an insult to the framers of our democratic form of government who conceived a legislative body elected and paid to act as representatives of the people. Dominated by an overwhelming Democratic majority, it has been sadly lacking in leadership. Put in office to frame legislation beneficial to the country it has sat through week and week, placing its rubber stamp of approval upon Acts conceived and written by a lot of Intellectuals and Brain Trusters. It has adopted the ideas of a pack of youthful, inexperienced school professors unknown to the country. Ideas sponsored by the President, for the apparently sole reason, that they were new.

Fortunately the country has one comforting thought as the members of the "Rubber Stamp" Congress wends their way homeward. The thought being that many of the representatives and senators will be missing when the roll is called for the next session. People will vote again in the elections of the coming fall. People know the retiring congressmen have been largely a flock of innocuous "yes men" too lazy to think for themselves, or else bereft of the gray matter needed to act intelligently in time of crisis.

Let us hope that during the coming weeks the American people will take deep and earnest thought concerning the make-up of the next Congress. May they choose candidates in whom they may place confidence. Candidates that will not have nine-tenths of their minds fixed upon patronage, and one-tenth fixed on legislation. For the patronage pie has made the last session of Congress rush to do one man's bidding, instead of acting like intelligent legislators.

HITTING THE LITTLE FELLOW

No doubt there are some features of the codes developed under N. R. A. which work to the intended goal of eliminating unfair competition, to the benefit of capital and labor both. But things may work all right in theory and still not succeed in practice. The danger of codification lies in the attempt to eliminate unfair competition, it swings beyond the desirable end and stifles legitimate competition or, sets up standards so different from those long accepted that old, small industries are adversely affected in many instances.

Take the oil code for instance. Since the birth of the automobile industry Pennsylvania grades of oil have been universally accepted as the best mineral lubricant for internal combustion engines. This crude having a paraffine base withstood the terrific heat requirements of an automobile motor so well that Pennsylvania grade oil became an axiom, and no manufacturer was allowed to use the trade-mark on any lubricant not wholly derived from a paraffine crude. In consequence of its superior quality as a lubricant, Pennsylvania oil came to command a higher price in the market.

Then along came the oil code. Many of the operators in the Pennsylvania fields are comparatively small men, unable to cope in voting power with the immense producers of the western states. Hence the oil code was largely dictated by the big operators who decided that oil should be oil, so the advantageous price Pennsylvania producers received was wiped out.

In the printing industry the United Typothetea, which is the great organization of the Graphic Arts industry, attempted to force its own code down the throats of the small country print shops. Their leaders cunningly conceived the idea of making a code so drastic it would drive the small plants out of existence. Fortunally an ally jumped to the support of the country print shops, the National Editorial Association, becoming the voice which was strong enough to thwart this attempt of United Typothetae to force city rules upon country people.

This week the bakery code was due to go into effect and the small baker is wondering just how he will possibly operate. Many believe strict enforcement of the bakery code will sound the knell of their business. The bakery code is especially difficult for small bakers because of the hours dictated. A small baker must set the sponge for his bread and then wait for the leavening effect before proceeding with his work, thus his men necessarily must remain on duty for longer weekly hours than the code allows. The big baker with a large staff of men can shift his crew from one job to another while sponges are rising, taking advantage of time which is lost to the small baker.

Left alone the employee of the small bakery is satisfied to stay on duty the longer hours. But leaving people alone is not the order of the day in Washington. In fact the federal government under this Administration seems determined to meddle with everything from automobiles to doughnuts. The bigger concerns with large organizations are able to turn code provisions to the disadvantage of the little fellow in business, creating more monopolistic conditions than ever have existed.

GOVERNMENT MEDDLING WITH PRODUCTION

Anyone who has traveled the highways during the past two or three weeks has seen conclusive proof that Mother Nature possesses methods beyond human knowledge, for getting rid of surplus crops. Everywhere one goes, the effects of the long continued drought are apparent. Wheat and rye are thin and spindling, oat fields are mostly blotches of yellow mustard, hay is short and weedy, and pastures afford slight feed for dairy cows fast shrinking in milk.

Students of Nature have frequently predicted that meddling by government in agricultural production could easily result disastrously for both the farmer and those who consume the products of the farm, which means of course, everyone in the country. What is hapening now bears out these predictions. We are rapidly swinging from a country packed high with surplus grain to a country facing shortage.

Dairy farmers are among the first to feel the effects of the changed situation. Feed which cost less than $19 a ton in June, 1932, costs over $28 a ton in June 1934. The drying up of pastures makes feeding of grain imperative, if the flow of milk is to be held up to what the city markets will demand. For the immediate present the dairy farmer is getting some relief from this intolerable situation by a boost in the retail price of fluid milk. But the higher feed advances, the higher milk must go up in order to provide the dairyman with means to pay for sufficient feed to supply the milk needed. The consumer will eventually suffer.

The western farmer who received money from processing taxes to cut production, soon found the advanced prices he paid for things he needed ate up his dole. With normal plantings last fall and this spring, the wheat crop, although cut by drought, would have provided the producers with more than they will realize now. The whole government agriculture program is proving an immense flop. The good old law of supply and demand governing prices, is as true in the present instance as it has been for hundreds of years. Trying to regulate prices by government meddling is a disillusion and disappointment, bound to react badly for the governed.

ANOTHER DIVORCE

High standards of morals seem to have slipped out of the windows of the White House, with the advent of the present encumbents of the place. The most recent indication of the way our so-called first family, disregards good, old American ideals of family life is revealed in the journey of a second descendant of the President to Reno.

Before Mr. Roosevelt had been in office many months his son Elliot divorced his first wife and married a second in the space of a few days. And now Mrs. Dall has taken residence in a cabin near the city of "Easy Release from Sacred Promises". The public has long taken notice of the fact Mrs. Dall was living in Washington, instead of with her husband in New York. Yet few would have believed a second of the President's children would flout public opinion by going to the divorce court.

Reams of publicity have been written concerning the fine American family which went into the White House in 1933, but passage of time does not enhance the ideal generally held for "first families". It was humiliating to all Americans with a sense of morality to see the son of the President get rid of his first wife with the manifest intention of taking a new one. Now Mrs. Dall has turned to the easiest divorce court in the country, humiliation may well turn into disgust.

Taking into full account the frailities of human nature, citizens have a right to expect better examples of family life than have come out of Washington since March, 1933. All which is decent and lasting in our civilization has been builded out of the sacredness of family relationship. Is it asking too much of those holding highest office to preserve high moral standards?

Senator Thayer's Resignation Chief Topic Albany Conversation

Albany, June 19—The chief topic in Albany for the past few days has been the resignation of Senator Warren T. Thayer of Chautauqua. Mr. Thayer came into national prominence last March, when in an investigation at Washington letters were unearthed in which he admitted having served the Associated Gas & Electric Corporation by killing bills while he was chairman of the Senate Public Service Committee, and of having received money from the same corporation for local election purposes. Mr. Thayer demanded an investigation, evidently in the hope of receiving a vindication. A committee was appointed and hearings held, transcripts of which were sent to all members of the Senate. Governor Lehman called a special session for the Senate for today, June 19, to hear arguments and to decide whether Senator Thayer should be exonerated or expelled. Shortly after the call was issued Mr. Thayer resigned.

Did It to Save His Friends

In sending his resignation to the Secretary of State Senator Thayer indicated he was taking that course to save his friends from embarrassment. Several of his colleagues, he said, had advised him that, while they were satisfied he had done nothing wrong in his dealings with the Associated Corporation, yet if they voted to exonerate him their action was likely to be misinterpreted and hurt them in their campaign for re-election. For that reason, said the Senator, and because he understood his case was being made a political football, he decided to step out of the situation. It is felt here, however, that Mr. Thayer's resignation does not necessarily end his connection with the utilities matter. There is seen no reason why he should not give all the information he possesses on the subject to the joint committee which is soon to begin a general investigation, and it is expected that he will be summoned.

Anti-Duel Bill Missing

There was a good deal of consternation in Albany when a search of the record revealed that nobody had thought to introduce at the recent session of the Legislature a bill repealing the old law against dueling. This has been a hardy perennial, blossoming at every session, but for some reason it never bore fruit. It has been suggested that one reason the legislative boys refused to repeal the dueling prohibition is that they don't want to be left in the lurch when some skeptic says to them: "Show me one law that isn't being violated."

Loyalty Question Won't Down

In spite of the fact that the teachers' oath bill of Assemblyman Ives, Chenango County Republican, met with a veto, the question of loyalty of teachers in our schools will not down—in fact, is more alive right now than before the Governor's action. Two New York newspapers have been conducting investigations in the schools of that city, with results which are expressed in the following quotations: "Communism is becoming more and more of a problem in New York's school system". "There is a rapidly growing sentiment among our teachers to replace the Stars and Stripes with the Red Flag of the Soviet. It is spreading among high school and college students and beginning to be felt in the elementary schools." Similar conditions, on a smaller scale, are reported from other parts of the State.

The Bill That Was Vetoed

The bill that was vetoed merely required that on assuming a position or making a change the teacher should take an oath to support the constitution of the State of New York and of the United States. A similar measure has been introduced in the House of Representatives at Washington by a member from New Jersey, except that it applies only to support of the Federal Constitution. There is some doubt as to whether it would be held valid, since education is held to be a state function, to which the Federal Government contributes but little.

Pheasant, Not State, to Blame

Governor Lehman, as expected, vetoed a claim bill which caused no little amazement and some merriment when it was going through the Assembly. A citizen of Onondaga was driving along a state road when a pheasant flew against his windshield, broke the glass, and is said to have impaired the driver's eyesight. The ordinary individual would have thought it was one of these accidents about which nothing can be done, but not so the Onondaga farmer. He maintained that the pheasant is not a native bird in New York but was brought here and is protected by the state. Hence the state is responsible for the accident and he should be allowed to sue it in the Court of Claims. The Legislature gave him permission, but the Governor didn't agree.

State Employees Mustn't Canvass

There has grown up among the thousands of state employees in Albany a practice that greatly irks the business houses of the city. A clerk or stenographer will get a catalog of jewelry, toiletries or what-not and will take orders for the articles among his or her associates. Nobody likes to turn down a pal, and so a lot of trade goes outside the city which the business people think should stay here. Requests to desist have been made, and if they do not bring the answer the Governor or other authorities will be asked to issue an order on the subject.

More of the New Laws

Among the new laws put on the statute books by passage through the recent Legislature and approval of the Governor are as follows:

Prohibiting inquiry of civil service employees as to their political affiliations.

Permitting courts, on waiver of trial by jury, to render a general verdict in the same manner as a jury.

Continuing for another year emergency cuts in State salaries of more than $2000 on a graduated scale from 6 to 33 per cent.

Permitting prisoners to earn compensation not to exceed ten days, instead of seven and one-half, as under the old law, of each month of their minimum time.

Authorizing town boards, subject to a referendum vote, to change elective town clerks to appointive jobs and vice versa, and to make the same change in respect to county highway superintendents.

Lauds Work of Mrs. Slocum

as well as their efficiency in the presentation in the most difficult program yet attempted by the musical clubs invoked the spontaneous admiration of all who were privileged to hear the concert. At the opening of the curtain the striking appearance of the youthful performers arranged on the stage, the girls in their uniform, filmy white dresses, the boys in dark coats and white flannels as well as the flower decked stage drew a gasp of admiration from the audience.

"The fact that the members of the combined chorus comprised nearly one-third of the student body indicates the popularity of the musical clubs in the high school as well as the fact that the musical activities are not limited to a privileged few".

In further commendation of Mrs. Slocum's work, the following editorial comment appeared in the same issue:

"Great cities may have their choral groups, symphonies and opera companies but it is very few villages that can claim the great honor Lyons is able to do. This was given greater evidence by the annual concert in the auditorium a few evenings ago.

"Villagers are to be proud that they have as the music instructor of their children such a splendid person as Mrs. Hugh C. Slocum. It is she who works efficiently and faithfully often at a risk of her health to perfect what most of you heard at the school. That concert was the result of months of thorough, accurate and exacting rehearsals. Time was not spared but patience was endured on the part of the conductor.

"It was a credit to her work. It was a credit to the school and it was a fitting song farewell to O. Wendell Hogue."

Mrs. Slocum will be remembered as the former Miss Amy Wilson, daughter of Mrs. Celia Wilson of Hedgesville. She graduated from Addison High School a number of years ago and taught in LeRoy before going to Lyons. Boston, Mass., June 18—Virtual completion of the new Christian Science Publishing House in Boston, Mass., and gratitude to the Field for its loyal support which made this achievement possible, was the keynote of the annual meeting of the Mother Church, The First Church of Christ, Scientist, in Boston, Mass, held here recently.

Announcement was made of the election of the following officers: President, Dr. John M. Brewer, of Cambridge, Mass.; Treasurer, Edward L. Ripley of Brookline, Mass.; Clerk, Ezra W. Palmer of Brookline, Mass.

The new president was introduced by Miss Mary G. Ewing, retiring president. In his address, Professor Brewer pointed out three ways, among others, by which Christian Scientists "can help humanity to get along peaceably and harmoniously with each other, in family, village, town, community, state, nation and world".

The Christian Science Board of Directors, in its message read by the retiring chairman, Mr. William R. Rathvon, referred to "the one achievement that looms so impressively—the completion of our new Publishing House Building— made possible by the sacrifices and generosity of those whose love of God and man was thus expressed."

To Make Survey of County Roads

Will Determine What is Needed to Provide for Improvements on 22 Miles of Highway—Construction to Follow Survey.

A survey of twenty-two county roads in Steuben County was started Monday as a preliminary towards improvement of these highways. The cost of the survey will be $6,400, according to advance estimates.

The survey will determine what is needed in the way of labor and materials for the proposed road improvements to be effected in Steuben County during 1934. The road schedule has been approved by the State Highway Department and the TERA, which will pay seventy-five per cent of the construction.

The survey was decided upon at a recent meeting of the Board of Supervisors. Final sanction was given following a visit to the State Highway Department at Albany and TERA headquarters in New York by a group of county officials, including the Rev. Carl J. Grabb, chairman of the County Emergency Work Bureau; Walter M. Goff, chairman of the Board of Supervisors; W. G. Kellogg, county superintendent of highways and R. F. Clewell, executive secretary of the Work Bureau.

One way to help hide the radiator is to paint it to match the walls.

Describes Origin of New Engine

Chevrolet Evolved New Principle of Cylinder-Head Design and Full Combustion Control — Called "Blue Flame", Because of Combustion — Now in Use on 1934 Model

How W. S. Knudsen's desire to possess a phenomenally powerful but compact engine for a small racing boat resulted in the discovery of new principles of combustion control that are now reflected in improved automobile performance has been told finally by Alex Taub, internationally known as an authority on internal combustion engines. He related the story at Detroit recently in an address outlining 1934 automotive developments, as an illustration of how engineers meet demands for the seemingly impossible.

"In 1931" said Mr. Taub, a member of the Chevrolet experimental engineering staff, "William S. Knudsen, then president of Chevrolet, requested the engineering department to design an engine of only 150 cubic inches that would develop 85 horsepower, for installation in a 17-foot racing boat. The order was a tall one, since at that time the standard Chevrolet engine was of 194 cubic inches displacement and delivered 55 horsepower. To obtain 54 per cent more horsepower with 22 per cent less displacement looked like an almost impossible job.

"However, Mr. Knudsen insisted that noting but an engine designed by his own engineering staff would suit him; but he added one of his characteristic remarks: 'You fellows go ahead, and remember that you are dealing with a man accustomed to disappointments. Do what you can.'

"We got busy seeking to find out how we could get what Mr. Knudsen wanted, and out of our efforts came a new principle of cylinder-head design and fuel combustion control. Instead of the 85 horsepower requested, 88 horsepower was obtained. Based on its cubic inch displacement, that little motor was the equal of any non-supercharged aviation engine in use today.

"These results were so gratifying that we immediately planned to adopt the new principles for Chevrolet engines. Having discovered a principle that would give 88 horsepower with only 150 cubic inches displacement, it was comparatively easy for us to obtain 80 horsepower with 206 cubic inches; that is, with only 12 cubic inches additional displacement, we gained 25 more horsepower. This engine—which we call the 'blue flame' engine because of the characteristics of its fuel combustion — was introduced with our 1934 models. Yet, in the fall of 1932, when dealers came to the proving ground to have their first look at the 1933 cars, a Chevrolet with this flue flame engine was chasing around the track at 80 miles an hour. We had the job ready then, but nobody outside of our own organization knew it. We were ready a year ahead of time — and that is an illustration of what we call 'long distance' engineering.

"In our present engine, we have attained 23 per cent more power and 12 per cent better economy at touring speeds, through new principles in cylinder-head design possible only with overhead valves. This power plant, however, is by no means the limit of a motor of its type—because this construction has given us a new concept of what can be done with a valve-in-head engine.

"Long distance engineering is one of our fixed principles. We design our engines far enough ahead so that we always have next year's engine 'ready to go'. We know now what we are going to do in 1935; we must know now, to be certain we are right when the time comes."

Fat Folks Lose Weight-Feel Fine

Lose Fat This Summer—Keep Cool —Look and Feel Younger

Mrs. Jessie Martin of San Francisco is happy because she has discovered the right, safe way to reduce—read her letter:

"I have taken Kruschen Salts a month and find great benefit. I have lost 14 lbs. in that time and would lose more if I stuck to a diet as I should. I take them every morning regular and hope others will profit by them as I have."

We have letters from men and women who have lost as much as 100 pounds of fat—from people who have reduced high blood pressure—from folks who have no more bloating or shortness of breath.

Kruschen helps stomach, liver, bowels to function properly — increases physical attractiveness all while losing unhealthy fat. Just take a half teaspoonful in a glass of hot water every morning before breakfast—get it at druggists everywhere.

PLAN TOUR OF KITCHENS

The Steuben County Home Bureau is planning to organize a tour on Saturday, July 21, to visit some of the kitchens in the county that have been improved. This work was begun with a study club a number of years ago and women were given assistance by mail on making changes for more convenient kitchens.

Requests for help continue to come in from Steuben County homemakers so last year a group of home conferences were held right in the kitchens and various suggestions were made as to how the equipment might be arranged for greater convenience.

Some very interesting things have been done in these Steuben County kitchens. The tour is being organized so that the help these women have received may be passed on to others.

Further information in regard to the tour will be published very soon. It will be open to the public and both men and women are invited to attend.

L. E. Hopkins Named Dairy Supervisor

Dairy Herd Improvement Association Being Reorganized—Production Records To Be Kept—Poor Producers To Be Eliminated.

Reorganization of the Cohocton Dair Herd Improvement Association is now in progress and L. E. Hopkins of Howard has been engaged as supervisor.

Each member is visited once a month when the tester weighs the feed for each cow, weighs and tests for butterfat, the milk of each cow. In this way a complete record of the production of each milker in the herd, the cost and value of the milk produced, is obtained.

With this information members of the association can cull out the low testers, poor producers, know which cows to raise heifers from, and learn the value of the sire. With these records each cow can be fed according to her production and members report that the saving on feed pays the cost of the service.

Two bulls were recently 'proven' in the herds of Edward Heinaman and A. W. Norris, charter members of this association. That is to say, the records show that five or more daughters of the herd sire are better producers than the dams and the bulls are known to be transmitters of high production.

There is a growing appreciation of the value of dairy records, which is the reason why requests for this Farm Bureau service is on the increase.

To Study Marketing of Milk Surplus

Appointment of Dr. Leland Spencer, Professor of Marketing at Cornell University, to make a special study of the problem of marketing surplus milk as it affects farmer cooperatives was announced by the Farm Credit Administration last week. The work will be carried out under the direction of the Cooperative Division, and will include other features of dairy marketing.

The handling of surplus milk is one of the complex problems confronting dairymen at present, it is said, and there is a keen interest among cooperative organizations for a careful analysis of all the factors concerned.

Dr. Spencer's study is designed also to supplement a survey made last year by the Cooperative Division of milk marketing in the northeastern states. While his work will not be confined entirely to that area, the information he develops is expected to make an important addition to the research already done there.

Dr. Spencer has done extensive research and teaching in the marketing of dairy products. He conducted special investigations for the tariff commission, and has made a number of surveys of milk marketing in New York.

League Official To Speak Here Monday

Wayne Manchester, supervisor of the Elmira office of the Dairymen's League is expected to address a meeting of Addison local in Grange Hall next Monday evening. If Mr. Manchester is unable to come he has promised to procure another noteworthy speaker to address the local gathering.

All members of the League and their families are invited to attend the meeting which will start promptly at eight o'clock. A report of the annual meeting, held recently in Syracuse, will be given by Mr. and Mrs. Junior Hovey, local delegate and alternate. Ice cream and strawberries will be served.

Poultry Culling Service Offered By Farm Bureau

Because of the high cost of feed and the low price of eggs the culling of poultry is of more than usual importance this year.

The Farm Bureau will again offer the poultry culling service, it has for a number of years in the past. An expert will be engaged whose services will be available to farmers and poultrymen who make application at the Farm Bureau office.

The records show that a third of the hens examined are poor producers, not worth keeping over a second laying period. The removal of these culls makes for a material saving in feed costs and a larger profit on the good layers.

Applications for the service, which will begin early in July, should be made directly to the Farm Bureau office.

Troupsburg Holds Lead In "Little Six"

Aces Down Austinburg; Troupsburg Wins Over Freeman

Woodhull Invincibles Conquer The Whitesville Nine —Many Outstanding Plays as Race Tightens in "Little Six"

The Jasper Aces came back quickly, after the Troupsburg debacle of the week previous, by trimming the Austinburg aggregation on the Jasper diamond last Sunday, 10-6. Moore was heaving them down the alley for the Aces and was in excellent form, keeping the Austinburg hits well scattered.

Woodward was back in the game for Jasper and made an outstanding play when he smeared a long hard-driven fly on the left field foul line. Whipple's play glittered with several fielding gems and Wright, at short, picked a number of hard hit sizzlers and converted them into easy outs at first. Three Jasper regulars, Schoonover, Swan and House, were missing from the line-up.

Kilburn started in the pitcher's box for Austinburg but allowed four runs to trickle over the pan in the first inning. Abbott, who relieved him, restricted the Aces to six markers during the remainder of the contest..

Doane, in right field, made a brilliant catch of a line drive which was headed for the far distant regions.

Graham, Donahue and Margeson made a number of out-standing plays in the Tiger outfield and Llewelyn cavorted over the short field like a big leaguer for Freeman.

Blossburg Withdraws From Tri-County Circuit

Blossburg threw a bombshell into Tri-County League circles early this week by notifying President Farrer of its withdrawal from league competition.

The action follows controversy regarding the eligibility of Mock, Blossburg star. The matter was freely aired at a meeting last week, but no definite decision was made at that time.

Hibbard's Homers Feature Shells Victory Over Music Masters

The Super-Shells opened their 1934 season impressively several days ago by downing the Music Masters, 18 to 11.

Hibbard and Heidrick each clouted a homer. Hibbard and Ward each had a perfect day at bat while Jimmy Kelly made four safeties in five times up. Ward served over a varied assortment of deceiving twisters which kept the horn tooters guessing, although Little and Rouse bit into his offerings for two hits apiece.

Legion Juniors Do Battle Today

Williams-Greengrass Juvenile Nine to Oppose Maple City Aggregation on High School Diamond—Flynn Expected to Pitch.

The American Legion Junior Baseball League will get underway in Addison at four o'clock this afternoon with the Hornell juveniles opposing the William-Greengrass nine. Lefty Flynn, of high school fame, will likely receive the hurling assignment for the home town boys.

Other promising diamond performers who will grace the Addison line-up include Raymond Hargrave, Ray Beers, Glen Beers, Hults, Lindsley, Little, Aldrich, Smith, Gardner and Dominick. Several of these have already made a name for themselves in scholastic circles. The others are up and coming youngsters who are quickly stepping forward into fast company.

Today's game will be the first in an elimination series with teams representing Hornell and Canisteo to determine the junior championship of the county. Forthcoming contests include a return game with Hornell at the Maple City next Sunday, Canisteo here on July 1st and there on July 5th.

The winner of the county elimination will be matched with other county winners in a sectional playoff, which will determine the state championship. In like manner, regional and national play-offs will eventually determine the national junior championship. All players are required to be not more than 16 years of age.

Rathbun Stewart is chairman of the baseball committee of Williams-Greengrass Post in charge of local arrangements. Wendell Hewson, physical director of Addison high school and coach of the high school nine, will assist in whipping the boys into shape.

Farmers paid $40,000,000 for a billion pounds of farm seed last year. This year, unless prices get too high, they are expected to buy more seed than usual.

A damp, clean sponge is better than a brush to take lint off broadcloth.

Mathews Led Addison High

Averages for the baseball season just closed show that two Addison High School players stood head and shoulders above their team mates in stick work. "Red" Mathews led the procession with .465, nearly .120 above his only rival for honors, Blazer Hadlock. Hadlock in turn stood more than .120 points above Hovey in third place.

Hadlock leads in runs scored with 14, just one more than Mathews. Hallett was in third place with 12 runs.

Post Team Trims Addison Nine

Six-Run Onslaught in Third Inning Squelches Hopes of Local Bat Pushers — Grange and Toby Oppose Spear on Mound.

A rudderless craft labelled "Addison A. C." drifted into Painted Post Sunday afternoon, bucked the current as best it could for an inning or two and then floundered on a bulky six-run reef which rammed its underpinning in the third. A late afternoon breeze lurched the ship into scoring position in the eighth and again in the ninth, but all to no avail. The Posters nine-run total bulked up as an obstacle which defied these feeble sallies.

Seven errors were chalked up against the Addison boys as against two for the Posters. The Aysees, however, outbit the Indians with ten clouts to eight. They were unable, however, to collect their bingles when hits meant runs.

The outcome sank Addison a step deeper into the cellar and left the Posters still a half game back of the league-leading Elkland Tanners.

Census On County Highways Completed

Employees of the State Highway Department office in Hornell have recently completed a county-wide census of motor vehicle traffic over the state highways in this section.

The census was taken between June 4 and 11 for a 24-hour period at "key" and "master" stations and for 12 hours at "base" stations. The procedure is being followed out all over the state for the benefit of the State Highway Department in studying traffic conditions.

Westfield Nine To Play Here Next Sunday

Westfield will oppose the Addison A. C. in a Tri-County League contest next Sunday afternoon at Tuscarora Field. The over-the-border boys took the measure of the Aysees in their earlier set-to several weeks ago and are hopeful of repeating in Sunday's encounter.

Local fans, however, look forward to the Westfield clash as the probable turning-point in the fortunes of the Addison team. Grange or Toby will start in the box for Addison with Stowell, Kellogg or Robbins on the receiving end.

Goodyear G-3 Whips Tread Wear Problem

Speedier Cars, Quicker Stops Make New Demands on Tire Equipment

"The modern automobile is reponsible for the greatest tire our company has ever made", declared John W. Russ, local dealer for the Goodyear Tire & Rubber Co.

"Present day cars with their greater speed, faster getaway and more powerful brakes for quick stops have produced a problem in tire wear which has been solved by Goodyear engineers in the newly introduced G-3 tire", he asserted.

"With the advent of smaller wheel diameters, high speed motors and powerful four-wheel brakes, tread wear became more of a problem—a problem immediately tackled by the company's engineers and research men. At once they started work on a new tire that would defeat these conditions and our new G-3 is the answer.

"Many designs and compounds were created only to be thrown away, but finally one bearing the factory number 'G-3' was found to stand up under the gruelling tests. One of the tests consisted of running the tire against sharp granite grit and resistance of the G-3 to this abrasion was found to be far greater than designs previously tested.

Test cars then tried the G-3 for months— speeding up to 60 miles per hour, jamming on brakes. Cars and brakes wore out—but the G-3 stood up and kept on standing up!

"The new tire, with its flatter tread, longer non-skid design wear, slower 'heel and toe' wear and greater safety with more non-skid blocks on the tread, has met and whipped the problem presented by the modern car", Mr. Russ concluded.

Addison Knights Lose Armor in Game With Painted Post Indians

The Addison High School baseball team ended a generally successful season Friday with an ignominious exhibition against Painted Post that made many fans forget the earlier triumphs of a nine which fell only a few notches short of the championship goal. The shellacking of 12 to 3 which the Indians administered the Knights, was the worst defeat suffered during the season.

The game was a travesty of erors, both commission and ommision. Flynn, who started in the box received little or no support and his good pitching efforts went to waste as the local infield booted the ball all over the lot, Hargrave being the only infielder not charged with one or more errors. Flynn left the game at the end of the fourth inning, and Joe Hopper's ocering proved more to the Indian's liking than "Lefty's." After an inning and a third Mathews came in from right field and finished in good style.

Decker of the post was going along smoothly meanwhile, and the best the local stickers could do was to gather three hits oc his delivery. He fanned nine batters and was especially effective with men on bases.

ADDISON METHODIST EPISCOPAL CHURCH
Rev. Ralph Webb, Pastor

Summer schedule with church school at 9 A. M. before the worship service, and the church service at 10:00 A: M. for one hour is proving to be as the pastor predicted, very popular. Last Sunday large attendance was given to both of these services. It is planned to accommodate the people of Addison, members and friends of this church. Transients and visitors and your guests we feel sure will be both attracted and pleased to worship with us at this more convenient time.

At 11:15 after attending church you may be at home packing the lunch or already on your way to visit relatives and friends. At 12 or 1 o'clock you may be at the lake or 40 miles away. At this early hour of service you will find the Methodist Church considerate of your desires and pleasures without sacrificing the one great need of all to worship.

Come to church next Sunday at 10 o'clock for this helpful and inspiring service.

Church school with Robert Apgar, presiding, at 9 A. M. The Addison Men's Club studying the Book of Books with Frank Smith teaching at 9 A. M. This is a real opportunity for the men of Addison. We do not ask you to come merely to mark time nor do we ask you merely to spend your time with us but come and get the best possible out of that hour. For one half hour with Frank Smith and the Men's Bible Class of the Methodist Church is of great value.

Have you read the Methodist Church Bulletin Board lately? The pastor was pleased to have that thought from Horace Bushnell: "Every man's life is a plan of God". What do you think of that? How about your life, is it now a plan of God? Originally it was, but perhaps you have spoiled his plan. Maybe your life is now too largely your own planning. Is that why we are so often failures, because we lose sight of God's plan for us?

On account of the Baccalaureate Service in the Baptist Church this Sunday evening the Epworth League will postpone its service until the following week. The leaguers are now planning for the summer program and the Silver Lake Institute.

Thursday, June 21, at 6:30 P. M., the Men's Club of Addison will attend in a body the picnic at Ralph Hand's farm, about one mile from Farnham street. Mr. Omelion is desirous of securing a large attendance. Mr. Hand is in charge of the recreational program. Hamburg and weiner roast is but a part of the program.
